8. Методические рекомендации и указания по организации изучения дисциплины

8.1. Методические рекомендации преподавателю

Предметом дисциплины «Иностранный язык» является изучение иноязычной культуры, фонетического материала, необходимого для коррекции и постановки правильного произношения и интонации, грамматического и лексического материала, необходимого для формирования коммуникативно-познавательной компетенции обучаемых в наиболее распространенных ситуациях официальной и неофициальной сфер общения во всех видах речевой деятельности (аудирование, говорение, чтение, письмо).

Совершенствование слухо-произносительных и ритмико-интонационных навыков студентов первого курса является очень важной составляющей работой преподавателя английского языка, т. к. эти навыки у большинства выпускников общеобразовательной школы практически не развиты, поэтому фонетические упражнения должны иметь место на каждом занятии по английскому языку.

Преподавателю вуза необходимо в своей работе для совершенствования фонематических навыков использовать пословицы, поговорки, стихи, песни, лексический материал темы или текста, составляя из него фонетические упражнения на долготу и краткость гласных, словесное ударение, интонационный рисунок английских предложений.

Дальнейшее совершенствование грамматических навыков целесообразно проводить в три этапа: ознакомление и первичное закрепление, тренировка, применение.

Первые два этапа рекомендуется осуществлять с помощью учебно-методического пособия: Иностранный язык. Грамматика английского языка : учебное пособие / [Кошкарлова С.М. [и др.] ; Федеральное агентство по образованию, ГОУ ВПО ТГПУ. – Томск : Изд-во ТГПУ, 2006. – 242 с.

Третий этап находит свое отражение в грамматических, лексических и текстовых упражнениях учебников или методических разработок.

8.2. Методические рекомендации для студентов

Знание иностранного языка помогает специалисту любой отрасли народного хозяйства не только стать более успешным в своей области, но и углубляет знания родного языка, расширяет общий кругозор, знакомит с социумом страны изучаемого языка, повышает культурный уровень.

Работа над иностранным языком требует определенных усилий. Предлагаемые методические рекомендации будут полезны не только в работе над английским языком, но и сделают процесс работы результативным.

Каждый человек, изучающий иностранный язык, должен помнить, что прежде чем приступить к работе над темой программы, текстом учебника, написанием сочинения и т. д., необходимо хорошо овладеть лексикой.

Овладение лексикой предполагает формирование лексического навыка, а формирование лексического навыка, в свою очередь, предполагает овладение произнесением, написанием нового слова, правилами его соотнесения с другими лексическими единицами (ЛЕ) языка.

Владеть словом означает не только знать его перевод с английского на русский, но и уметь его правильно читать, делать буквенный анализ, правильно писать с точки зрения каллиграфии и орфографии, спрягать или склонять, употреблять в устной и письменной речи.

Работая над коррективным курсом, рекомендуется начинать каждое занятие с гимнастики органов речи, которая включает немые двигательные упражнения для языка, губ и другие. Затем можно подключить голоса проводить фонетическую зарядку на словах. Все упражнения выполняются по несколько раз.

Порядок работы над фонетическими упражнениями:

- прослушивание упражнения с пленки (или в чтении преподавателя);
- объяснение артикуляции корректируемого звука;
- показ артикуляции звука преподавателем, подкрепленный наглядными пособиями (схемами, таблицами);

- воспроизведение артикуляции звука студентами под контролем преподавателя;
- произнесение звука студентами хором и индивидуально;
- прослушивание пленки и повторение каждого слова за диктором хором;
- индивидуальное чтение упражнений студентами под контролем преподавателя;
- первое тренировочное чтение упражнения отдельными студентами;
- второе чтение тренировочного упражнения при участии всех студентов в исправлении ошибок;
- контрольное чтение упражнения.

Особое внимание следует уделить этапам работы над стихотворением, предложенным для фонетической зарядки:

- прослушивание стихотворения, читаемой диктором, без зрительной опоры;
- прослушивание с опорой на печатный текст;
- построчное повторение за диктором;
- чтение вслух вместе с диктором;
- самостоятельное чтение.

При работе над лексикой английского языка рекомендуется:

- очень хорошо отработать произношение лексических единиц (ЛЕ) (правильно поставить словесное ударение, сделать приступ или придыхание, акцентировать долготу и гласность звуков);
- прочесть список ЛЕ по теме, к тексту и выделить из них уже знакомые слова;
- написать знакомые ЛЕ на английском языке с опорой на русский;
- проверить правильность их написания с опорой на английский язык;
- выписать из списка новые ЛЕ с одинаковым корнем, провести анализ их образования и, соответственно, проанализировать перевод на русский язык;
- выписать из списка ЛЕ с суффиксами;
- выписать из списка ЛЕ с приставками;
- выписать имена существительные, образованные от глаголов или других частей речи;
- подобрать к новым ЛЕ синонимы;
- выписать глаголы;
- составить из новых ЛЕ словосочетания;
- подготовить карточки с ЛЕ на русском и английском языках для постоянного пользования, например, в автобусе;
- употребить ЛЕ в устной и письменной речи.

Употребление ЛЕ в устной и письменной речи означает выполнение различного рода упражнений: подстановочных, конструктивных, трансформационных, занимательных, а также упражнения для активизации лексики в речи. Но использование ЛЕ во всех видах речевой деятельности невозможно без знаний фонетических и грамматических правил оформления речи. В вузе должно идти совершенствование и дальнейшее развитие фонематического слуха, а также техники и произнесения английских звуков в слове, словосочетании, предложении, речевом потоке в процессе говорения или чтения.

Большое внимание нужно уделять в работе над английским языком интонации предложения, что очень связано с дальнейшим совершенствованием аудитивных навыков восприятия интонационного рисунка английского предложения и его адекватное воспроизведение в процессе устной речи.

My family is not large we are four. I have a father, a mother and a brother. We all live together in a new flat. My father is 45. He is a tall and well-built man with short black hair and grey eyes. He is quiet and hardworking. Really, he is a bread maker of the family. Dad is handy with many things. His hobby is fixing everything at home. My mother is very lively. She is life and soul of the family. She is a pleasant woman of forty with beautiful chestnut hair and dark brown eyes. She is a lofty ideal for me. My parents have been married for 20 years they have much in common, in everyday life Dad is impractical and needs mother to look after him. Parents have different views on music, books, and films. For example, my father likes horror films and my father likes. My father is a football fan and Mum doesn't like sports. But they try to have the same opinion about the education and upbringing of their children. My brother is only 11. He goes to school. He is funny and curious. He is constantly asking many questions often silly ones. But this only a moment - I can't imagine my life without our little monster. We all feel happy when we are together. In the evenings we often have little gatherings in the kitchen by the cup of tea, chatting, laughing and discussing the events of the day. Those evenings are the best of all. But sometimes I have problems with my parents. They don't like the clothes I wear the music I listen to and the friends I bring home. It's not easy to be a teenager. In summer I visit my Granny. I love her when I was a child she used to tell me fairytales and stories of her life. My parents are hardworking. They combine work with housekeeping. Mum manages our household very well. We all are in the habit of helping her to run the house. Our relatives and friends like to come to our place. My parents are very hospitable everybody feels at home in their flat.

Education helps us to develop fully the abilities of individuals, for their own benefit and of society as a whole. Compulsory schooling takes place between the ages of 5 and 16, but some pupils remain at school for 2 years. The department of education and science is responsible for national education policy, but it doesn't run any schools, it doesn't employ teachers, or prescribe curricular or textbooks. All schools are given a considerable amount of freedom. According to the law only one subject is compulsory. That is religious instruction.

Education within the maintained schools system usually comprises two stages: primary and secondary education. Primary schools are subdivided into infant schools (ages 5 - 7), and junior schools (ages 7 - 11). Infant schools are informal and children are encouraged to read, write and make use of numbers and develop the creative abilities. The junior stage extends over four years. Children have sets of arithmetic, reading, composition, history, geography, nature study and others. At this stage of schooling pupils were often placed in A, B, C and D streams according to their abilities. The most able children were put in the A stream, the least able in the D stream. Most junior school children had to sit for the eleven-plus examination. It consisted of an arithmetic paper and an intelligent test. According to the results of the exam children are sent to Grammar, Technical or Secondary modern schools. So called comprehensive schools began to appear after World War II.

The main examinations for secondary school pupils are general certificate of education (the GCE) exam and certificate of secondary education (the CSE) exam. The GCE exam is held at two levels: ordinary level (O level) and advanced level (A level).

British and American families are small. In fact the populations of both Britain and the USA have stopped growing. The typical family has a father, mother and two children. Grandparents come to visit, but do not usually live with their children.

Most people get married between the ages of 20 and 23 but many marriages end in divorce. This means that both countries have a large number of "single parent families", one father or mother looking after their children alone.

The typical British family has a car, a colour TV set, a washing machine, and a cat or dog as well. They start the day at about 7 o'clock, have breakfast at 8, and are off to work by 8.30. More and more women now go out to work as well as men. The children have lunch at school at about 12.30, and come home at 4 in the afternoon. Their parents are usually home by 6 o'clock, and the family eats together at 6.30 or 7. In the evenings, father may go to the pub for a drink, or stay at home and watch TV with the others. Children go to bed early, at about 8 o'clock, two or three hours before their parents.

The typical American family has more money than a British family. Many have two or three cars, large modern kitchens and more electrical goods. They eat more meat and spend more on clothes. But their daily program is nearly the same. Like British children, American children eat lunch at school, come home mid-afternoon, and go to bed earlier than their parents.

American society seems to be much more informal than the British. Students do not rise when a teacher enters the room. One does not always address a person by his title. The respectful "Sir" is not always used in the northern and western parts of the country.

However, it is best to use a person's title when first meeting him or her, and then allow the person to tell you how he or she wishes to be called. They use first names when calling each other, slap on the back, joke and are much freer in their speech. You will often hear the word "Hi" (a form of greeting among friends) used instead of the usual "Hello," and "Howdy" instead of "How do you do?"

Those who don't easily show these signs of friendship are called "snooty" or "snobbish." In contrast, people who show such simple signs of friendship, particularly to their own economic and social inferiors, are praised as "regular guys," or as "truly democratic".

Americans, even in the way they address each other, show social distinction. For example, one is likely to use somewhat more formal language when talking to superiors. While the informal "Hello" is an acceptable greeting from employee to employer, the employee is more apt to say "Hello, Mr. Ferguson," while the employer may reply "Hello, Jim." Southerners make a point of saying "Yes, sir," or "Yes, Madam," or "No, sir," or "No, Madam," when talking to an older person or a person in a position of authority.

Certain other forms of politeness are observed on social occasions. Women may wear hats in church, in restaurants, and often when attending luncheons in public places. Men who do wear hats ordinarily remove them in elevators, churches, restaurants, private homes, business offices — in fact, in most public situations when they wish to show respect.

Oxford was an important town even before the University appeared; it is mentioned in the "Anglo-Saxon Chronicle" of 912 as "Oxenforde", the ford where oxen and men could cross the river.

The college corporate institutions with special rules and privileges came into being during the Middle Ages. The thirteenth and fourteenth centuries saw many quarrels between the students and the townsfolk culminating in the fire on St. Scholastic's Day. In 1672 the Test Act required all students subscribe to the Thirty-nine Articles of the Church of England a requirement which was not abolished for another two hundred years.

The ground on which Oxford is built bounded on the west and south by the Thames - or Isis, as called here - and on the east by a tributary, the Cherwell. This place is for those whose tastes in boat are for relaxation rather than for exercise. This sport is taken very seriously by many undergraduates and there is great rival between college crews.

Academic life in Oxford is full and varied. Some of the occasions are solemn, some exciting, and a few unashamedly frivolous. The three principal annual events are Commemoration, Congregation and Convocation. The first is mainly concerned with the conferring of Honorary Degrees, the ceremony celebrating the opening of the Sheldonian Theatre in 1669. Associated with it are the celebrations of the Encaenia. Meetings of Congregation and Convocation are conducted with all the splendour and ceremony which tradition demands.

Every college of the University has its own Library, and many of them are very large and comprehensive. The principal museums of Oxford are the Ashmolean and the University Museum.

Oxford is not only one of the two oldest university cities of Great Britain, but a flourishing industrial town as well. Its history can be traced as far back as the eighth century, when the earliest monastic foundation was already in existence. Oxford is also famous for its architecture.

Cambridge is so-called because most of the town is built on the east side of the River Cam, a tributary of the Ouse. Slight hills rise gently on the south and west. A small town first situated around two hills, Castle Hill and Market Hill. Market Hill still remains its importance too. Every day, and especially on Saturdays, its square is the scene of a busy market, selling all kinds of fruit, vegetables, groceries, antiques, etc. Housewives come here to bargain for their food, and students look for cheap books.

The River Cam has led us already from Cambridge to the University. For modern Cambridge has been described as "perhaps the only true University Town in England". The best known building in Cambridge is King's College Chapel (designed by Henry VI). There are now 22 colleges. The first one was founded in 1284, and in 1963 Churchill College (named after Sir Winston).

Until 1964, undergraduates (students studying for a first degree) had to wear black cloaks, called gowns, after dark, but now they are obliged to wear them for dinner and some lectures. This tradition is fast disappearing, but one which is still upheld is that of punting on the Cam. It is a favourite summer pastime for students to take food, drink, guitars (or transistor radios) and girl friends on to a punt (a long, slim boat, rather like a gondola) and sail down the river, trying very hard to forget about exams! This has almost become a tourist attraction.

On Rag Day (usually in November) hundreds of different schemes are thought up to collect money for charity, and it is not unusual to see students in the streets playing guitars, pianos, violins, singing, dancing, fishing in river for money.

Such tradition, in such beautiful surroundings, often helps to make Cambridge almost as idyllic today as it was in the 13th century. The parking meters in the main street of King's Parade assert the presence of modern life, in contrast to the ancient chimes of the church bells in the evening.

There is a certain sort of a man in the world, a man who can be a good cook. If he marries a woman, who is a good cook too, there will be no harmony in their family. The man will always interfere in the kitchen. The woman will shout and drive him away. It is generally assumed that cooking is the housewife's job. Take for example, different advertisements. You can see a certain picture: a hungry man is sitting and looking expectantly at table, meanwhile his wife is bustling to and from the stove. Then she gives her husband a dish which ensures his adoration for ever.

Does he want to cook after this? Many people will reply: "He even shouldn't".

The idea that a woman should always cook is completely wrong. A man should be able to cook too, at least when his wife is out or seriously ill. So if a man can't cook, he should ask his wife to teach him.

And what about a woman who can't use tools? Sometimes her disability to handle a screwdriver can cause the same problems as a man's being unable to boil an egg.

The woman living in a manless household is often in panic when a fuse burns out, a door handle comes off, a tap leaks, and a wash basin refuses to empty freely. She has to call in an electrician, who sends in a bill, which exceeds his real acts.

Actually at such a time a woman may realize that a short course of training in the use of tools would have saved her time, her money and her temper.

Assume – принимать на себя
